

Low weight respirator

Weighing just 805g, the RPB Z4 is said to be up to 23% lighter than other brands of welding/grinding respirator. It is now available in the UK to help with meeting new HSE enforcement expectations for welding fume.

The Z4 is designed with comfort as a top priority. Weight is evenly distributed to the sides of the head, eliminating top-heavy pressure points around the forehead and temples and alleviating strains on the neck and upper back.

A flip-up welding visor allows the wearer to quickly and easily transition from welding to grinding without being exposed to harmful welding fume.

The Z4 has adjustable head suspension and airflow, optical clarity, and optional padding. Add-ons include communications and lighting accessories.

Labels and signs

Rebo systems has introduced its new, multi-colour Kodiak in-house safety sign system and will be featuring it at Safety & Health Expo 2019.

The Kodiak has two print heads for multi-colour printing and can print from 10 to 20cm wide, giving fast, single pass printing for everyday signage, labels, GHS chemical labels and more.

The stand-alone system has integrated touch screen and in-built applications for fast sign and label production. It can be connected to a PC, if required, having its own print driver available.

One system can create all your signs and labels in 10-year-durable outside vinyl, complete with graphics, custom texts and with more than one colour. Sign templates are in-built and a GHS database is integrated into the system, complete with layouts.

Focusing on mental health and wellbeing

Occupational mental health and wellbeing will be the main focus for SGS at Safety & Health Expo 2019.

"When we think of health and safety it is usually physical protection that springs to mind," says Kate Breslin, product manager at SGS. "While this is obviously important, so too is the psychological wellbeing of employees."

SGS will demonstrate how ISO 45001:2018 sets out a framework that all UK employers can implement to quickly address issues in this area. It will highlight how certification can make a positive difference to how a business operates.'

Visitors will also be able to find out about new courses that the SGS Academy has developed in conjunction with Cognoscenti Business Psychologists. These focus on three levels - corporate, management and individual.

Courage and risk

Can you reduce human error and eliminate up to 95% of workplace injuries? Join Eddie the Eagle, former British Olympic Ski Jumper, and Larry Wilson, CEO of SafeStart International, at this year's SHExpo for their answer.

The safety duo will address the topic of courage and risk on Wednesday 19th June in the Keynote Theatre from 11.30 - 12.30).

Health & safety managers will understand that rushing, frustration, fatigue and complacency are normal states you will face in the working day; however, what most do not realise is that this state-to-error risk pattern is responsible for more than 95% of all injuries.

Eddie and Larry will outline how organisations can tackle safety pain points, moving beyond compliance and reducing common causes of workplace injuries.

A book signing session follows their presentation. Stand SH2045.
